

The Total Leader Embraces Mass Customized Learning

Pennsylvania Department of Education Approved Act 48 Program for 40 PIL Hours

The Total Leader Embraces Mass Customized Learning (MCL) program is designed to provide educational leaders with a framework to implement a system of customized/personalized learning. The program delivers compelling research, personal success stories, and interesting ideas that, when embraced, will activate the leader's ability to successfully bring about change that leads to creating the "ideal learning experience."

Program Design

The main objective of the MCL program is to transform the current industrial age model of education to a customized/personalized model that empowers both learner and adult. The program is developed to provide content (research & practice) as exemplars and opportunities to embed learning into practice while, contributing to a professional learning community.

The program embraces innovation, use of data, evaluation and the transformation of education that empowers the students as well as the professionals. It promotes collaboration and how to live the life of a "Total Leader."

Requirements

Participants are required to select integrated activities that will lead to increased student achievement and adult performance. When school teams focus on a few, high-leverage strategies using a cohesive system of leadership, increased student achievement is the result. As a culminating project during the "Evidence Fair," participants will provide data showing how their selected initiative led to increased student achievement and discuss the challenges of implementation.

The participant requirements for the program includes:

- Engaging in the blended-learning (in-class & virtual) environment
- Embedding activities into daily practice
- Presenting a culminating project at an "Evidence Fair" during the final in-class session
